Excerpt: . we know just what each crop takes from the soil and what it contributes to its enrichment, then it is possible reflectively to devise ways and means of adjusting crops to the soil and to one another in the agricultural process. In other words, the problems can be solved by reasoning; for exact knowledge of the essential factors entering into them can be secured, and laws and principles can be applied in the construction of methods of procedure. 4. Definition Of Reasoning. Having pointed out the specific differentia of the reasoning process, we are now ready to define reasoning from that point of view. Reasoning is controlled thinking, -- thinking organised and systematised according to laws and principles and carried on by the use of superior elements of technique. 5. Biological Significance Of Reasoning. (1) Reasoning the highest factor of control. The great...
