Dog Ear Publishing, United States, 2012. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 231 x 190 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The loss of a loved one is always deeply painful. When that loved one is younger a child or a younger sibling the pain is intensified by a sense of outrage and injustice. Those younger than we will surely outlive us! Additionally, when the loss is occasioned by tragedy in a distant place, making impossible any final interaction with the beloved a touch, a parting word, a simple look into eyes it can be nearly impossible to accept the reality or bear the grief. In this book, Perry Robert Wilkes writes through his grieving process in the face of losing not just one, but three, remarkable and much loved family members: his younger and only brother Steve, Steve s wife Janette, and their younger son Eliot. All perished in the crash of a small plane in the Alaskan wilderness, while the older son, Alec, waited in his Uncle Perry and Aunt Carolyn s home for his family s return. Much of the writing of this book was done in Bahia de Kino, a small, remote Mexican seaside community where the family had vacationed together and to which Perry and Carolyn returned yearly for retreat and renewal. It was the way Perry chose to heal from his own pain; honor the lives of Steve, Janette, and Eliot; and give a gift of love to their friends and family, and especially his nephew Alec. As an ongoing conversation with Steve, it is also a reminder to anyone struggling with the loss of someone very dear that the conversation need never end, because true love has a story to tell and a voice that can never be stilled. With...
